

BROWN IN RACE FOR GOVERNOR

Secretary of State Now Aspires to Highest Office in State

COOPER STILL SILENT

Ohio G. O. P. Political Pot Now at Boiling Point

Columbus, O., Nov. 30.—(P)—The Republican political pot in Ohio was simmering today with two avowed candidates for the party's gubernatorial nomination already in the field and friends of a third urging him to announce.

Clarence J. Brown, of Blanchester, secretary of state, last night announced himself a candidate for the nomination. David Stinton Ingalls, of Cleveland, assistant secretary of the navy in charge of aeronautics, announced his candidacy earlier this month.

The third possibility, former Governor Myers Y. Cooper, of Cincinnati, has made no statement, but his utterances on public questions have led many to believe he intends to enter the race.

In announcing his candidacy, Brown issued a statement saying that almost three-fourths of the county Republican organizations had adopted resolutions endorsing him and promising him "unqualified support" in the primary. He said in person and by letter thousands of other Ohio citizens requested him to submit his name.

"Feeling that my experience in state service as lieutenant governor for four years and secretary of state for six years, has perhaps given me a knowledge of state affairs and an understanding of Ohio governmental questions that will fit me for the governorship," the secretary said "I hereby announce to the Republican voters of Ohio that I am a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, subject to their wishes as expressed at the May primaries."

Brown said he would, within due time, present to the electorate the platform upon which he will seek their support.

Brown was born at Blanchester and educated in the public schools there. He attended Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Va., and after receiving a law degree, started to practice at Blanchester. He is head of Brown Publishing Company, which publishes several newspapers and an educational magazine.

Brown, who is 40, was selected lieutenant governor in 1919, becoming the youngest elective state official to hold office in the state. He served two terms, under Governor James M. Cox and Governor Harry L. Davis. He was elected secretary of state in 1926, was re-elected in 1928 and 1930.

He is married and has three children.

George C. Braden, Warren, chairman of the State Tax Commission, today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for secretary of state.

Braden was appointed to the tax

SOLUTION TO FATE OF CLIFF DWELLERS IN STORM DISASTER

Zuni, N. M., Nov. 30.—(P)—From the experience of Navajo and Zuni Indians marooned a week by snowdrifts on the mesas of New Mexico anthropologists have drawn a tentative solution of the disappearance of the cliff dwellers of Mesa Verde 600 years ago.

The mystery of the lack of skeletons about the ruins of the Colorado cliff dwellers, discovered in 1874, was recalled by the plight of the Navajo hunters, who suffered hunger, exposure and death in a recent blizzard.

A parallel is that the cliff dwellers might have perished in search of food. The modern Red Men, aided by thawing weather and several rescue parties, were pouring back to their homes today with the harvest of their annual nut hunting expedition.

The official death toll of the 1300 Indians caught in the storm was seven. Indians said thirteen more persons were unaccounted for. Two boys who ran away from the Charles H. Burke Indian school at Fort Wingate, were among the missing.

Dr. 'Bonesetter' Reese Dies---"Miracles" Are Contribution To Life

One-Time Welsh Steel Worker's Deft and Strong Hands Heal Rich and Poor, Great and Humble

Youngstown, O., Nov. 30.—(P)—The one-time Welsh steel worker whose calloused, skillful hands made him America's "Miracle man" to countless injured and cripples, is dead.

Dr. John D. Reese—"Bonesetter" Reese to millionaire and pauper, Prime Minister and office boy—died late yesterday after a heart attack. He was 76 years old.

For the last 40 years, Reese's home was a mecca for those seeking cures from deformed limbs. He healed only with his hands and his knowledge of bone structure, but many an athlete owed a protracted career to him and his practice including the famous down to the laborers in the steel mills where he once toiled.

Dr. Reese was critically ill for a time last spring. He recovered, but retired from practice.

The healer, whose snowy, long hair, moustache and twinkling eyes often caused him to be mistaken for Mark Twain, learned his art of setting bones as a child. At 10 he was working in a rolling mill in England, but came to the United States in 1887.

An accident started him on his profession, but by 1900 he was a licensed "bone setter" by special act of the Ohio Legislature. A fellow worker fractured his leg. Reese set it so well others began coming to him and he left the mills to launch his career.

From then on he treated as many as 80 persons a day. Among his notable clients were David Lloyd George, Gene Tunney, Babe Ruth, Ty Cobb, Honus Wagner, Rogers Hornsby, Will Rogers, Pat Rooney, Kae Samuels, Fred Stone, Johnny Kilbane, and "Battling"

G.O.P. LEADER PARTY PROBLEM

Selection of Candidate for Speakership of House First Step

Washington, Nov. 30.—(P)—The thinned ranks of Republican representatives converged today to choose the speaker of the house who must contest a Democratic majority for control this session.

Either John G. Tilson, of Connecticut, or Bertrand H. Snell of New York, was expected to win the contest. Many others were in the race, the contest between the leaders was close, but chances of a deadlock with a "dark horse" victory were discounted.

Actually this conflict that has been waged bitterly since the death of Nicholas Longworth has been for the leadership of the administration forces, as the Democratic majority is expected to be successful in organizing the house.

It requires a majority of those voting to elect a nominee. About 25 of the 214 Republicans were to be absent. Tilson and Snell each entered the caucus with about 80 votes in line after the favorite son ballots have been cast. Nearly 40 members were not committed. A group of Independents had indicated no interest in the outcome.

With the exception of a few employees, Representative Hawley of Oregon, the party caucus chair.

OHIO HICCUGHES NOW IN 18TH DAY

MT. VERNON MAN CURE OF SIMILAR AFFLICTION IN 1929—NO FEAR FELT

Mt. Vernon, O., Nov. 30.—(P)—Ohio's second hiccough sufferer of the month, Carl Horlacher, 39, today entered his 18 day of convulsions.

Dr. Julius Shamansky, however, said he had cured Horlacher of a similar attack that lasted three weeks in 1929, and said he would try the same treatment again. He declined to say what the treatment is.

Horlacher, a news dealer, cannot retain food and is growing weaker from the strain of his constant hiccoughing, his physician said.

Horlacher's condition, however, was not regarded as serious as that of Ira A. King, of Mansfield, who hiccoughed for nearly three weeks until the attack was topped by removing his gall bladder.

WOMAN TAKES POISON

Detroit, (P)—Miss Ruby Stump, 28, of Massillon, O., was in a serious condition today from the effects of nine poison tablets which she had swallowed Sunday. She collapsed in a downtown bus station and was taken to receiving hospital.

"PUPPY LOVE" FATAL

Chicago, Nov. 30.—(P)—Ruth Wicklund, 13, was shot and killed today by Henry Sio, her 16 year old sweetheart, who then killed himself.

Police said the shooting was the climax of a "puppy love" quarrel.

GOING TO HELL SAYS GANDHI

He Gives Up All Hope of India's Independence; Ready to Go Home

London, Nov. 30.—(P)—Mahatma Gandhi, despairing of independence for India he came here to seek at the round table conference, today prepared to sail for home Saturday to what he predicted is going to be "hell," and probably more jail for him.

"There is going to be hell," the little man said yesterday as he plodded through slushy streets on his regularly early morning walk. Looking even more ghost-like in the raw, cold fog. "I leave Saturday for Bombay. There we shall take up again our weaponless battle against England."

"Yes," he said, in answer to a question, "I expect to be a guest of the government again in jail—or they might deport me, but the fight will go on."

He plodded along, his head bowed, his shoulders drooped and his homespun shawl pulled tightly around his scrawny body.

"We must go again through a calvary of suffering," he continued after a moment's silence. Not far away the chimes of a church bell chimed the hour.

"It seems God's will that we must take up our heavy cross and carry it to the end."

"How soon after you return will you begin the battle?"

"The masses in India are only awaiting my signal, but I think I

AMATEUR ACTOR HELD FOR KILLING

New York, Nov. 30.—(P)—They were playing "theatre". Clarence Hitchcock took the part of the Philander-Homewrecker. His best friend, John Tilker, portrayed the role of the husband who comes home at the end of the act and finds his wife in the arms of another man.

Just a play, of course, but it was a jolly entertainment.

Tilker entered. He saw his make-believe wife in the arms of her make-believe betrayer. He pulled a pistol from his pocket, aimed dramatically—and fired.

It was all in fun.

The bullet in Hitchcock's neck may cause his death.

Tilker is held for felonious assault.

TAX HELD VALID

Washington, Nov. 30.—(P)—The Supreme court upheld another chain store tax today in deciding that the Virginia license tax on distributing warehouses operated by chains was valid.

CURTIS WILL NOT RUN FOR SENATE--HE WOULD TAKE VICE-PRESIDENCY

Months of Controversy by Political Experts Brought to End

HE IS FIRST IN RACE

Hoover Not Mentioned in Announcement

Washington, Nov. 30.—(P)—Vice President Curtis announced today he would not run for the Senate next year, and would accept renomination as vice president if tendered the office.

His statement follows: "There has been presented for my decision the question whether I shall be a candidate for United States senator from Kansas in 1932, and if not, whether I shall accept another nomination for vice president in the event of its being tendered to me."

"Many reasons have been assigned by my friends, to support either course I pursue."

"After careful consideration I have decided not to be a candidate for the United States Senate for Kansas in 1932, and further, that if the next Republican National convention nominates me for vice president, in 1932, I shall accept."

While Mr. Curtis made no mention of President Hoover in his statement, his offer to accept again the vice presidency cast his lot with the President, in the opinion of political leaders.

No campaign for renomination is contemplated by Mr. Curtis, but his statement puts him far in front in the deliberations of the Republicans over the vice presidency.

Mr. Curtis reached his decision after months of consideration.

Recent talks with administration leaders are believed at the capitol to have determined him finally.

While no statement is expected from Mr. Hoover, there is little apparent doubt in Washington that Curtis will be renominated—should Mr. Hoover get the nomination again.

Mr. Curtis made public his announcement this morning shortly after his return from Chicago. The typewritten statement was handed out by Miss Lola Williams, his secretary.

When newspapermen asked Mr. Curtis if he had anything to add to his brief announcement, he smilingly recalled President Coolidge's "I" (Continued on Page Three.)

MURDERESS' FATHER IN CHURCH PULPIT

SOMETHING BETTER IN LIFE THAN SIN, HE SAYS WHILE MRS. JUDD IS IN JAIL

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 30.—(P)—The Rev. J. H. McKinnell of Darlington, Ind., father of Winnie Ruth Judd, confessed slayer of Mrs. Agnes Anne Le Roi, and Miss Hedvig Samuelson, occupied the pulpit of a Phoenix church here yesterday.

Nearly sat his wife. They came here to be with their daughter, whose trial is set for December 15.

"There is something better for us in this world than sin," Mr. McKinnell said.

"There is something sad and pathetic about the fall of man, but there is something glorious about the redemption."

"There are times when the wrath of God seems directed against us—when storm clouds gather and surround us in darkness and despair. There are the times when faith should stand out strongest, for the ways of providence are wise and God moves in a mysterious way his wonders to perform."

CHICAGO IS IN MORE FINANCIAL DIFFICULTIES NOW

Chicago, Nov. 30.—(P)—Another financial crisis loomed for Chicago today.

For twenty-three thousand city employees, including 10,000 policemen and firemen it was a payless payday, unless wealthy taxpayers save the situation by responding to a request from Mayor Anton J. Cermak to purchase tax anticipation warrants to raise cash to tide the city over the emergency.

Mayor Cermak called many of the city's taxpayers into conference with the hope of raising the money in this latest financial pinch, which

HUNGER MARCH INSPIRES RIOTS AND MOVES ON

Brick Tossed into Police Detail at Hammond, Ind., Signal for Melee

Hammond, Ind., Nov. 30.—(P)—A midwestern delegation of the "National Hunger Army", enroute to Washington to protest conditions to President Hoover, was routed by the police yesterday with tear bombs, following a riot. No arrests were made but a quantity of communistic literature and a number of banners were seized.

The disturbance occurred when 250 men and women recruited from Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota and North Dakota, tried to hold a demonstration on the court house lawn in defiance of the police.

Members of the delegation, who were enroute to the National Capital in thirty automobiles and trucks, halted their cars so that some of their leaders could address a crowd that had gathered. Soon someone tossed a brick into a detail of thirty-five policemen and the disturbance became general.

Residents of Hammond joined in the melee, some with the police and others with the "hunger marchers." About sixty women participated. Finally the police hurled their bombs, but they took effect on the officers as well as on the rioters. In confusion the members of the "army" climbed back into their automobiles and sped out of the city. They were overtaken by the police, however, and were compelled to separate into four sections.

Each column was started eastward over a different road.

ENTER OHIO TUESDAY

Columbus, O., Nov. 30.—(P)—Two sections of the marchers enroute to Washington to protest to President Hoover against the unemployment situation, will enter Ohio tomorrow. Adjutant General Frank D. Henderson was informed today.

One group from Indianapolis will reach Cincinnati tomorrow and (Continued on Page Six.)

FAT OF LAND RULES AT LIVESTOCK SHOW

Chicago, Nov. 30.—(P)—The fat of the land ruled supreme today at the International Livestock Show.

Fat breeds of cattle, sheep, and swine—haughty beasts and accustomed to this pomp and pageantry—strutted for honors in the arena. First among themselves, then breed against breed for the grand champion steer, the barrow, and wether.

The crowds at the exposition, largest in its history, were augmented today by the arrival of 1200 boys and girls from every state, here for the National 4-H Club Congress.

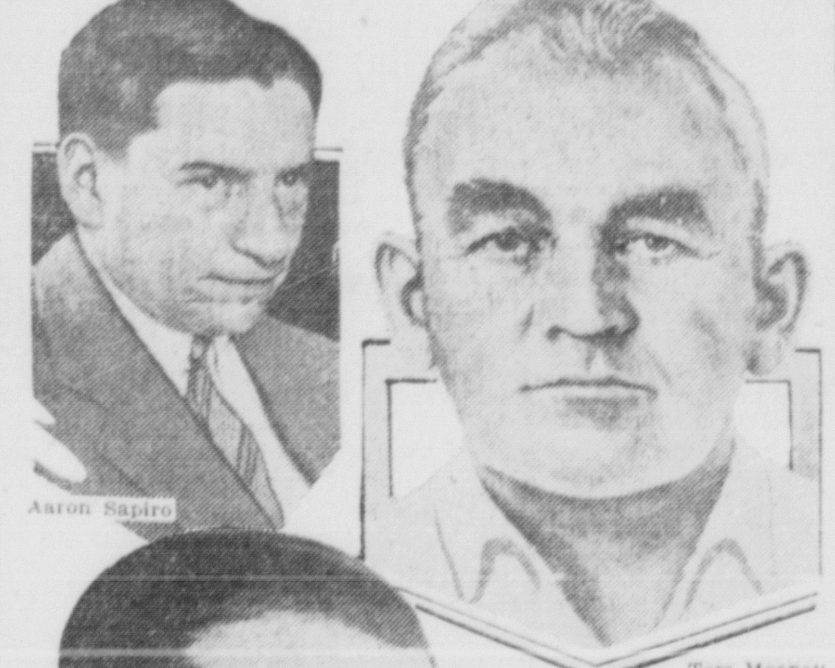

Tomorrow, one boy and one girl of these 1200 will be crowned as healthiest in the land.

Herman Trelle, of Wembley, Alberta, again won the wheat king title at the exposition with his sample of Durum wheat.

O. Edson Smith, of Corvallis, Montana, won the reserve championship with an exhibit of white spring.

Michigan State College won the first of the breed champions in sheep judging. A yearling wether was shown by the Michigan college to first place in its class and the wether was awarded the championship of the grades and cross-breeds.

LAWYERS BATTLE FOR TOM MOONEY

Strenuously, under the leadership of Mayor James J. Walker of New York, two prominent lawyers have worked to build up a strong case to argue before Governor James Rolph, Jr., at the Tom Mooney pardon application hearing, in San Francisco. They are Frank P. Walsh, veteran labor

SENATOR AND GOVERNOR SPAT IN EMPLOYMENT AID BALLYHOO ABOUT CHARITY CONTRIBUTIONS

Senator James J. Davis Dares Gov. Pinchot to Give All—He Wins

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 30.—(P)—Governor Pinchot today, replying to a recent letter from United States James J. Davis, said he would give to unemployment relief one-fourth of his annual gross income this year.

The Governor said the Senator's proposal that the Pinchots and the Davises give their entire annual income to relief was "obviously not in good faith, and requires no further attention."

The Governor's statement added: "For 1930 the last year reported to the state's treasury department, my net income upon which the federal income tax is figured, was $37,139.49. My gross income was $52,650.46. My contributions to relief this year will amount to one-quarter of my gross income for 1930."

"If my gross income in 1931 is larger than in 1930 I will contribute one-quarter of the larger sum."

The Governor opened the controversy by asking Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon to loan Pennsylvania one million dollars of his personal funds for unemployment relief. Mellon declined to loan the money.

Then Senator Davis, in a speech here, jestingly remarked that if Governor Pinchot had given a million dollars along with Mellon and some other wealthy Pennsylvanians the remainder of the state's residents would not be bothered with supplying funds for unemployment.

Miss Estelle de Lia, former teacher attempted to kill herself yesterday by leaping from a window at the home of a relative. Members of her family said she was despondent because she had received no salary.

The city's school teachers have also been hard hit by the lack of ready cash. Approximately 18,000 teachers and other board of education employees have received but one month's pay in cash since last spring, and some of them are related to be in actual want.

WAR CLOUD IS LIFTING IN ORIENT

Establishment of Neutral Zone Suggested by League of Nations

PEACE HOPES BOOSTED

Direct Negotiations Also Considered Possible

The Manchurian situation as summarized by The Associated Press, Peiping — Chang Hsueh-Liang, commanding Chinese troops at Chinchow, has agreed to withdraw to Shanhaikwan if the Japanese will withdraw within the Mukden Railway zone. December 15 suggested as a tentative date for completion of these movements.

Tokyo—The Japanese charge d'affaires in China had an appointment to talk with Dr. Wellington Koo, the foreign minister at Nanking, and this created a hope that direct negotiation might begin soon to settle the Manchurian dispute.

Nanking—The formal inauguration of Dr. Koo as foreign minister and President Chiang Kai-Shek emphasized that their governmental policy is one of peace but that an essential is maintenance of the territorial and administrative integrity of China.

Mukden—The Japanese charged that Chinese forces were massing between Chinchow and Tachuan as the Japanese army retired toward Mukden. Officials of the Peiping-Mukden railway announced they expected to resume through service tomorrow.

Washington—Secretary Stimson withheld comment today on the Manchurian situation.

The secretary, in declining to respond to questions, said the situation had been discussed sufficiently lately.

His only remark on peace moves in Paris was that discussions were going on toward the establishment of a neutral zone along the Peiping-Mukden railway.

Nanking—Immediate acceptance of the League of Nations proposal to establish a neutral zone in Manchuria between the Chinese and Japanese forces was announced today by the Nanking government.

The Chinese commander at Chinchow has been directed to convey this information to foreign observers there.

Tokyo, Nov. 30.—(P)—A prospect for direct negotiations between China and Japan brought hopes for a Manchurian pact to Tokyo today. The first basis for the new hope was in an announcement that Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japanese charge d'affaires in China will visit Dr. Wellington Koo, Chinese foreign minister, to discuss the creation of a neutral zone in the territory.

This discussion, it was hoped, (Continued On Page Six.)

SIX MEN ARRESTED FOR OHIO BURGLARY

Xenia, O., Nov. 30.—(P)—Sheriff John Baughn said today he believed the robbery of the Charles Mount home in Yellow Springs, in which $900 in heirlooms, jewelry and silverware was taken 10 days ago, has been solved with the arrest of six men here and in Indiana.

The suspects, all charged with burglary and larceny from an inhabited dwelling, were Samuel Johnson, arrested at Dayton; Lewis Leming and Clayton Grissom, arrested here; Ralph Morrow and A. B. Mollett, picked up at Versailles, Ind., and Waldo Baker, taken into custody at Greenville, Ind.

Johnson and Leming have been identified by Douglas Osborn and Wilbur Thomas, farm hands who said they were tortured during the robbery, according to authorities. Baker also was said to be wanted by Dayton and Springfield authorities investigating other robberies.

CONFIDENCE WEEK URGED BY LEGION

Lorain, O., Nov. 30.—(P)—Plans for a state-wide "confidence" week early in 1932 to re-establish confidence in America's ability to dig its way out of the depression are being made by The Ohio American Legion, State Commander Paul M. Herbert of Columbus, said yesterday.

ART CLASS WORK SHOWING BENEFITS

The Art class conducted by Miss Bess Cleveland for the benefit of local teachers is progressing nicely and is bearing fruit.

As to the value of art in the scheme of education, little need be said. Its benefits are so generally realized that this subject finds a place in curriculum of all well-organized schools.

While it is scarcely to be expected that art work in public schools can be successfully carried on without assistance of an art supervisor, yet much can be accomplished.

Our local schools have been without the services of an art supervisor and as a result work in this subject has become disorganized. Miss Cleveland's assistance is of great value in helping to correct the situation.

Realizing that it would be impossible to secure an art supervisor at this time, the teachers were quite willing to bear the expense incident to the course as conducted by Miss Cleveland.

The teachers are determined to do all they possible can to aid in bringing art to the pupils under their charge.

CHAPEL SERVICES ON THANKSGIVING

A Thanksgiving Day chapel was presented to the students last week under the direction of Miss Conn and Mrs. Susan Fite.

The program retained the spirit of the season throughout, consisting of the scripture reading by Robert Himmler; Thanksgiving poem, Cloyd Richardson; mixed chorus; history of Thanksgiving, George Sheets; tableau; violin solo, Doris Graves; poem, Arthur Schlachter; marimba solo, Dorothy Crone.

The tableau showed the beginning and development of the day of Thanksgiving of seven races, namely: Hebrew, Greek, Roman, English, Dutch, Indian and the Puritan. The girls taking part in this were Helen Thompson, Freda Self, Patricia Jenkins, Eleanor Robinson, Mary Chapman, Janice Hanes and Alice Ferneau.

JUNIOR HI-Y

A discussion on "The Difficulties Encountered by a Leader" was most interesting to the members of the Junior Hi-Y club at last week's luncheon.

The discussion was led by Cloyd Richardson. He pointed out things that happen in the high school in which Hi-Y boys should assume leadership. Several boys suggested times and places where this group as a whole should assume responsibility for fostering right thinking and acting.

"The Hi-Y boys should be an example of good conduct and they should object to any conduct which is unmanly," was the thought left with the boys.

DEPRESSION GIVEN CREDIT FOR GOOD

While the economic depression has brought a great many evils at the same time there is a possibility of its doing much good.

At first thought it would seem to many that people in general were spending a great deal of their time in pursuit of pleasure and things of lesser value. Yet, if we look deeply enough we shall find a grim seriousness in all lines of activity.

It is a common observation everywhere that this element of seriousness is present to a greater degree in public school work. Urged on by the thought that difficult times are present and uncertain times are in the future, students in public schools and universities are attacking their work with a determination to get the most there is to be had from it.

The quality of the work in our local schools is no exception. A great many students are putting more effort into their work and showing a greater determination to succeed in spite of handicaps than has shown in past years.

BASKETS SENT OUT ON THANKSGIVING

Carrying out the spirit of Thanksgiving, the Girl Reserves sent out baskets last Wednesday. Each girl brought her contribution of fruit, vegetables, or cereal to headquarters in room 12.

Miss Portia Brownell, faculty advisor for the club, supervised the packing of the baskets.

Names of the needy were furnished by Miss Mary Robinson of the Red Cross.

MAKING PICTURES

The senior class began work on the annual early this year in order to avoid the inevitable rush at the close of the school term.

All senior pictures will have been made and finished by the end of this week. If the work on the year continues to progress without interruption the "Sunburst" will be issued at an earlier date this spring.

SCHOOL'S SYSTEM IS BEING SURVEYED

Dr. T. C. Holy, of Ohio State University and seven graduate students again visited the city in connection with a survey being made in our public schools by Ohio State University and the State Department of Education.

The advanced report of the survey has already been prepared and the final report will soon be out.

Dr. Holy is doing a thorough piece of work and one that should be of much value in planning for the future.

Hillsboro has asked that a survey be made of their public school system. This is to be undertaken in January of the coming year.

EXTENSION COURSE

The extension course being conducted by Dr. Foster of Ohio University continues to hold the interest of a large class.

Dr. Foster is quite well known for his successful work in Shakespeare. His local pupils are taking great interest in the course he is now offering here. Many new students have entered.

This last week a number from the class attended the Shakespearean plays at Cincinnati.

Another course in the same or some other subject will be organized this coming semester provided there is sufficient interest.

SPELLING TESTED

Renewed interest is being taken by pupils and teachers in spelling. In every building the pupils are making a great effort to master the art of spelling, honor rolls, merit badges and championship banners are incidental evidences of the activity being displayed in this subject.

The teachers feel that before the end of the year a very marked improvement in the pupils' ability to spell will be noticed.

Some valuable research work in the way of spelling is being carried on by the teachers, principals, and the superintendent.

At the present the superintendent is conducting a series of spelling tests throughout the grades. The Buckingham Extension of the Ayres Spelling Scale is being used.

BASKETBALLERS TAKE UP PRACTICE

With the close of the Thanksgiving season the attention of the sports followers turns from football to basketball. Practice began for the high school team last week with the first game to be played on December 11 at London.

The schedule for the year is as follows:

December 11—London, there.

December 18—Columbus South, there.

January 8—Wilmington, there.

January 15—Frankfort, here.

January 22—Chillicothe, here.

January 29—Greenfield, there.

January 30—London, here.

February 5—Frankfort, there.

February 12—Wilmington, here.

February 26—Chillicothe, there.

March 4, Greenfield, here.

The remainder are at home. The high school wished them all a happy Thanksgiving.

SOPHOMORES WIN AND HAVE POWWOW

The pow-wow awarded the sophomore class for turning in more magazine subscriptions than any other class in high school was held in the gym last Wednesday night at eight o'clock.

The evening began with a group of original games especially planned for this party.

A tempting menu of doughnuts, pumpkin pie and cider was served late in the evening.

The spree was brought to an end with dancing. The Whip-poor-wills, dance orchestra of the high school, furnished music for the evening.

Mrs. Coffman, faculty advisor of the sophomores, was assisted in arranging the party by Miss Culhan who was in charge of the magazine campaign.

1930 SENIOR CLASS LOCATING MEMBERS

Since everybody has been wondering where last year's seniors are we have tried to find them to get them home in time for Thanksgiving. The colleges are sending home a number of last year's class. They are:

Miami Jacobs Business College—Lorane Kruse, Katherine Henry. Ohio University—Tom Severs, Eldon Armbrust.

Wilmington College—Mary Frances Noble, Virginia Wilson, Betty Sturgeon.

Miami University—Herman Todhunter, Elma Baker, Mary K. Doyle, Richard Cockerill, Barbara Bush, Carrie Beth Maddox.

WILL THESE TWO MARRY AGAIN?

Chicago's Gold Coast circles are buzzing with rumors that Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick and Harold P. McCormick are to be rewed. They were married in 1895 and divorced ten years ago. A year later McCormick married Ganna Walska, concert singer, from whom he was divorced six weeks ago. Although McCormick has been seen visiting his first wife's box at the opera, in Chicago, both have refused to comment on the rumor of their re-marriage. Mrs. Edith McCormick, daughter of the oil king, and McCormick, Harvester magnate, are shown above.

ALUMNI OF O. S. U. TO GATHER FRIDAY FOR ANNUAL PARTY

INVITATIONS BEING SENT OUT AND ALL FORMER STUDENTS ELIGIBLE TO ATTEND

The alumni of Ohio State University will gather Friday evening at the Federated Club rooms for their annual get-together. Committees are trying to provide all that is necessary for a good time.

Alumni organizations of O. S. U. meet each year in cities all over the country the first week in December. Formerly the Fayette county organization, held a banquet but this year the plan has been changed. A party beginning at 7:30 P. M. is arranged with a business meeting to bring the evening to a close.

It is estimated that there are 200 former students of Ohio State in Fayette county. Committees are now at work sending out invitations to all whose names are on the available records. But, it is explained, this invitation is not necessary; any student or former student of the state university is welcome to come and bring a guest.

This week the former Buckeye students are telling one another "Let's wave the good old Scarlet and Gray when we get together Friday night." A good representation is anticipated by the association officers.

HAYS WILL CASE AGAIN ON TRIAL

The will, contest case of A. L. Hays and others, against James Elmer Hays, et al., executors of the will of Olivia Hays, which was tried before Judge H. M. Rankin and a jury, last June, and which at that time resulted in a disagreement, is again being tried in common pleas court.

The work of seating a jury was under way Monday forenoon. The plaintiffs are represented by N. P. Clyburn and Troy T. Junk, while the defendants are represented by E. L. Bush and Ray R. Maddox.

Witnesses called for the plaintiff are: M. L. Yeoman, Clell Allen, Roy Allen, Russell Fench, John Hathcock, George McCoy, Leona Dadds, George Counts, Merrill Looker, C. Hummel and Frank Coe.

BANK IS PURCHASED

Wilmington, O., Nov. 30.—(P)—The Farmers National Bank of Clarksville has been purchased by The Clinton County National Bank and Trust Co. of Wilmington, and merged with that institution effective today.

I. O. O. F. NOTICE

Important meeting of Temple Lodge 227 Tuesday evening, 7:30 P. M. Election of local and grand lodge officers. Refreshments in the club room. All members and former members are invited.

REV. C. W. BRADY DIES SUDDENLY

Was M. E. Pastor at Bloomington Five Years

Rev. Charles W. Brady, 62, for five years pastor of the M. E. Church in Bloomington many years ago, fell dead while delivering the Sunday morning sermon at the Asbury M. E. Church, Orchard and Walnut streets, Cincinnati, of which he was the pastor, death being due to apoplexy.

Rev. Brady, who had a great number of friends in the Bloomington community where he was greatly beloved, died while referring in his sermon to the deathbed scene of Mary, Queen of Scots, at which time she is said to have cried "my kingdom for a moment of time." He had just finished explaining that her words were those of repentance and that she wished to live "a moment" longer to atone for her sins. He then began to repeat the words, "my kingdom for a moment of time," but never finished. His voice trailed off and he collapsed.

Rev. Brady had been a resident of Cincinnati for approximately two years, going there from Ironton, Ohio, and had been pastor of Columbus Methodist Episcopal Church prior to his charge at the Asbury church. He had been in charge of churches in several other Ohio cities also, including Zanesville, Columbus, Pomeroy, Portsmouth and Ironton.

He had been in the ministry for approximately 33 years, having been graduated from Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, in 1898.

Rev. Brady is survived by a brother, Robert, Boise, Idaho; his wife, three sons, Edwin, Albert and Frank, and a daughter, Margaret, all of Cincinnati.

Funeral services will be conducted Tuesday afternoon at the Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church. Burial will be made at Racine, O.

Calvin Coolidge says eight years in the white house is enough to give anyone a swelled head. But congress, thank heaven, often exerts a restraining influence.

CURTIS WILL NOT RUN FOR SENATE — WOULD TAKE VICE PRESIDENCY

do not choose to run," statement in 1927.

"I said to Mr. Coolidge on that occasion," he remarked, "that I thought he should make his statement more definite.

"He replied that he had nothing to add to it or nothing to take from it. I say the same now."

Asked whether he conferred with the President before making his decision, he was non-committal.

In response to a question as to whether his decision indicated optimism over Republican prospects for 1932 he said "Read my Chicago speech of Saturday night and you will see that I am optimistic, not pessimistic."

Curtis is the only man of Indian ancestry ever to become vice president.

G. O. P. LEADER PARTY PROBLEM

man, excluded all but the qualified Republican members from the house chamber.

Shortly after the death of Longworth, Snell took the lead in a field of nearly a dozen aspirants. However, when the Democrats assumed a majority recently through deaths of Republicans and elections of Democrats, Tilson gained substantial strength.

On the first ballot, several favorite sons of state delegations were assured support.

The campaigns have been the bitterest on intra-party matters in years. Snell and Tilson, with Longworth formed the triumvirate that dominated the house during the past three congresses.

Chairman of the Rules Committee for six years, Snell was closer to Longworth than Tilson. The Connecticut member, however, has followed the Hoover and Coolidge administrations more closely.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR JAMES HILLERY

St. Colmans' Church was filled with relatives and friends, Monday morning at nine o'clock for farewell services for James Hillery former Safety-Service Director and street commissioner of this city, whose death occurred at his home here last Friday evening.

Rev. Father Fogarty conducted the services, and requiem high mass was sung by the St. Colmans choir, with Miss Margaret McDonald at the piano, and Miss Mary Louise Morse singing the two solos, "Lead Thou Me" and "Face to Face."

Father Fogarty paid a beautiful personal tribute to Mr. Hillery. Interment was made in the Washington cemetery.

The pallbearers were: Peter H. Curtin, Ched Roberts, George Dean, Leo Burke, Frank King and Thomas Ducey.

LAURENCE BISHOP FUNERAL IS HELD

The Cox and Fitzgerald Funeral Home was filled, Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock, for the final services for Laurence Bishop, Union township farmer who died in a Columbus hospital following an operation.

Rev. J. A. Goddard, of the Church of Christ, conducted the services offering prayer, reading from the Scriptures, and delivering the sermon in which he spoke of the life and many commendable traits of Mr. Bishop. Rev. Goddard also read the hymns "Sometime We'll Understand," "Does Jesus Care," and "When All The World's Forgotten."

Interment was made in the Washington cemetery, the pallbearers being: Charles Mark, John Bishop, Sherman Bishop, Dock Long, Ellis Bishop, Isaac Miller.

BIG LANDSLIDE MENACES HIGHWAY

Povhatan, O., (AP)—A landslide on Highway No. 7 a mile north of here, threatened to carry a whole hillside some 200 feet long, and averaging 40 feet in depth into the Ohio river. Heavy rains were believed to have caused the slide.

NOTICE

The Wilson Community Circle will hold an old fashion mixer and get-together Thursday night Dec. 3. All members are requested to be present as programs for the rest of the year are to be planned, music and entertainment.

YOUTHS CHAMPION CO-EDS' CAUSE

Attacks Hurlled Against Dean of Women at DePauw University Cost College Editor His Job as Expulsions and Student Strike Loom.

View of the DePauw campus; above, inserts, left to right, Thoburn Wiant student editor of The DePauw; Katherine Alvord, dean of women; Ben Deming, senior who wrote the "student opinion" article.

By JACK CEJNAR

Greencastle, Ind., — A battle for the emancipation of the DePauw co-eds and for the freedom of the college press has embroiled the entire campus of this famous Methodist university here.

It all started when The DePauw, student newspaper, published in its "student opinion" column an attack by Ben Deming, 21, a senior of Fort Worth, Tex., against Dean of Women Katherine Alvord.

Deming charged that the time had arrived to put an end to what he terms the autocratic rule of Dean Alvord, whom he accused of attaching a lascivious significance to technical violations of her campus social rules by co-eds. He alleged the dean of women likened infracting girl students to street walkers.

ARTICLE CAUSES FURORE

"This has gone far enough," Deming's article protests. "We have long prided ourselves on having in our university girls from some of the finest homes in Indiana and elsewhere. There is no reason in the world why the dean should be permitted to drag them into her office and, holding them at the mercy of her discipline, hurl names at them."

Publication of the article has caused a furore on the campus.

President Bromley Oxnam is in Japan and will not be back until December. Dr. Henry B. Logden, acting president of DePauw, immediately summoned the board of control of the student newspaper into session.

The board quickly removed Thoburn Hughes Wiant, 21, a senior of Indianapolis, as editor-in-chief of the student journal. This in itself was a sensation as Wiant is the son of the Rev. W. W. Wiant pastor of the fashionable North Methodist church of Indianapolis, and a member of the board of trustees of DePauw University.

EXPULSION EXPECTED

Expulsion from the university of Wiant and of Deming was expected to be the next disciplinary step of the faculty.

Such action by the university authorities is expected to result in student demonstrations. Some of Wiant's supporters look forward to a student strike.

The feeling among the students has been heightened by the order of Dr. Longden prohibiting the staff of The DePauw from publishing any further "student opinions" unless they bear faculty approval. He appointed Professor George L. Bird, head of the journalism department, as censor of the paper.

The following editorial by Wiant was suppressed by the censor:

"It has been the practice of The DePauw to offer the 'student opinion' column to any expression of student feeling upon campus problems. It has been the belief of the editors that The DePauw is a student publication and that the students should have unmoiled control of what is published in its columns.

STUDENT OPINION

"In the last issue of The DePauw a student made accusations against the dean of women. Whether or not the student was justified in the attack on the administration of Dean Alvord is not the principal issue at stake. Late administration officials have declared that such an opinion should not have been published, regardless of the truth or untruth of the accusations. In other words, they advocate the suppression of student opinion, and thus would abolish the only mode of expression afforded the student body.

"The issue is clearly defined. It is up to the administration to decide upon their policies. It is equally appropriate for the student body to decide upon its policies—whether it will meekly accept any decision of the administration or whether it will rally to the defense of the most sacred of all its rights—the right to express its honest opinions."

Dean Alvord is widely known in Indiana scholastic and social circles.

TREAT DAIRY COWS AS INDIVIDUALS

By J. H. BODWELL

From an economic standpoint hens must be treated as a flock, whereas cows in the dairy herd should be treated as individuals.

In one of the southern states a survey was made and results showed that the one non-profitable cow in the herd took the profit from seven profitable cows. It behooves us then to find the non-profitable cow and get rid of her in order that we may enjoy the profit of the other seven.

There is only one way to find out whether or not a cow is profitable, and that is by keeping records. If a set of scales is hung up in the milk room near the strainer, it takes very little extra time to jot down the amount of milk that each cow produces. From these records one may easily determine the cow that is not profitable, and even though the price of beef is very low, it is much better to sell her at a loss than a loss each day from the herd because of her presence.

From this record, also, one may determine how much feed should be given her. On the average a cow should be fed one pound of grain to from two and one-half to four pounds of milk, according to her lactation period, physical condition and per cent of butterfat. The herd should be fed dairy feed according to the roughage that is available.

If the roughage is timothy hay, it has been found feeding experiments that a Dairy Ration containing 24 per cent protein is desirable. With a mixed hay, a ration containing 20 per cent produces good results. Where a dairyman has Alfalfa or Clover Hay, a 16½ per cent ration is satisfactory. Many dairymen feed a ration for production, but fail to take into consideration the physical condition of the cow. A dairy cow can produce the maximum amount of milk she is capable of producing only when she is in good condition.

It has been found very desirable to feed a ration that might be termed a fitting ration, containing approximately 12 per cent protein. The fitting ration is fed to put flesh on the animal. The dairy feed is fed to put milk in the pail. If the cow is dry or has just freshened, she should get nothing but fitting ration. If she is in good condition and has been milking for a month, she should get nothing but the dairy feed. If she has been milking for quite some time, but is thin in flesh, she should get at least one-third fitting ration and two-thirds dairy feed and in this way the individual needs of the cow can be satisfied very easily.

MRS. LYN NSMITH IS BADLY INJURED

Mrs. Lynn Smith, making a misstep while on the cellar stairs at her home corner of South North street and Circle avenue, Sunday night, fell to the bottom of the stairway, fracturing her left arm above the elbow and at the wrist. She was also badly bruised and sustained a small scalp wound.

Mrs. Smith suffered severely throughout the night but was resting somewhat easier Monday.

"I suppose I'm like most people who read the newspapers..."

"I DON'T read all the ads, any more than I read the whole of any newspaper or magazine. But I do read a good many of them.

"Recently I've been reading more than usual, and I certainly like what Chesterfield has to say and the way it is said. I would probably like the cigarette, too, but somehow I just haven't got 'round to trying it.

"Come to think of it, I can't tell you why I smoke this other cigarette. It's more from habit, I suppose, than for any real reason.

"I'd never thought about it before, but last night, at a party, I noticed eight of my friends—five men and three girls—who had changed to Chesterfields. They told me that Chesterfields are milder, that they taste better, that they just seem to satisfy.

"Of course, cigarettes are a small thing, but, after all, they give me a lot of pleasure, and a cigarette like Chesterfield that you hear such good things about, must be good. Anyway, I've just bought my first package of Chesterfields, and I believe I'll find them just like the ads say—milder—taste better—pure—satisfy."

Discontent

Discontent was long considered a sort of sin, not the unpardonable sin, but one of the numberless other lesser sins. In some quarters the dissatisfied-with-themselves are still preached at and pleaded with to follow the trail of complacency and contentedness.

Through the ages and for generation after generation the ignorant masses were kept in subjugation and want by this creed which considered ambition an evil and aspirations as temptations placed before the common people by the devil. Twentieth century commercialism and standards of living have broken down this creed in the United States and elsewhere to that degree where those without ambitions and the will to fulfill them are scornfully denounced by the more provident.

A touch of unhappiness, of concern, of discontent, is essential to vigorous enterprise and achievement. When everything is going with beautiful smoothness in a man's life, his work immediately shows the effects of it. He slacks up a trifle; he takes a bit too much for granted; he slides back, however, imperceptibly. It is when things are not exactly hot-sy-totsy with him that he produces the best that there is in him.

The men and women who are discontented with themselves, their business, their environment, their station in life, are the men and women who are accomplishing the things worth while. They are making the world go round, not the contented laborer and the satisfied clerk. Every invention is the product of discontent. Discontent is the foundation for every new home.

Shoppers

Shopping is one of the oldest of human activities—as old as the Garden of Eden, where the serpent proved himself an expert salesman and the first woman as keen a bargain hunter as the last. Man is not a shopper by nature, but only so by grim necessity, stern duty and frequent cajoling. Even then he labors under many handicaps, the most serious being the obsession that he is a poor fish and out of water to boot.

There is a fine art of shopping as everybody ought to know, and three simple rules are fundamental—first, know what you want and list your items before you leave home, otherwise your expedition may be farcical and a failure. Second, know where to go for what you want, which means a careful reading of the advertisements in the daily papers. Third, go after what you want as early in the shopping season as possible and thereby lighten the burden of pushing, pulling, elbowing, nerve-racking crowds. If there be a fourth rule it is this—let courtesy constrain your actions and speech the while you bargain, since civility helps to make shopping as well as love one long sweet song.

Advice

The cheapest commodity in this world is advice. That's why so many people give it away.

We all need suggestions to guide us along the way. But advice should be sought or else its power for helpfulness becomes doubtful. Advice that you give to someone else may have been thought out as good advice for yourself but turn out to be the worst possible for another. To keep one's mouth shut is an accomplishment both rare and refreshing.

The lawyer sells his advice. And the client gladly pays a great sum to his lawyer because he has faith in his advice.

There are so many things that we could give away and which would make other people very happy, so that advice really takes a back seat and is of little importance excepting when highly cultivated through experience or special study and research.

Many times we have given our advice only to see it come back to us in a very unhappy state of mind and full of blame.

But kindness, generous impulses that have been put to action, sincere love, encouragement, inspiring words, never come back except when they return with interest compounded again and again. Seek advice, but do not give it unasked is a good rule to follow.

SOLON WEIGHS PRESENT TREND WITH CLARITY

Senator Bulow, Democrat, from Republican Stronghold, Expresses Opinion with Primitive Directness

By CHARLES P. STEWART.

Washington, Nov. 30.—W. J. Bulow perhaps will be recalled as the Democratic governor of South Dakota who was in office the year when President Coolidge passed his summer vacation in the Black Hills and gave out his historic "do not choose" message to the country.

The same W. J. Bulow is now South Dakota's new Democratic senator—a Democratic senator from South Dakota being quite a political curiosity.

Senator Bulow frankly is a tenderfoot in the midst of national affairs and discusses them tentatively. Nevertheless, there is a suggestion about him of plenty of natural aplomb. As a personality, he does not give the impression that Washington's proportions will overawe him.

By repute the senator has one immensely valuable asset for public life—a highly developed sense of humor. Reports from the northwest refer to his speeches as funnier than the best professional entertainers.

In conversation he makes no obvious effort to scintillate, however. But he does outline economic difficulties, as he sees them, with a primitive clarity that has the ring of genuine originality, in comparison with all the complicated theorizing of which one hears so much in the capital's official circles—executive as well as legislative.

"Out in the agricultural area," complains the South Dakotan, chewing tobacco vigorously, "we have a surplus of crops and livestock, but a shortage of shoes, clothing and all sorts of factory products."

"Here in the industrial east farm products evidently are scarce, but factory production seems to have been overdone."

"We in the west would like to trade our surplus for the east's surplus, and no doubt the eastern folk would like to trade their surplus for ours."

"Well, why don't we do it?"

"We can't, somehow; nobody appears to know just why not."

"Without entering into any question of foreign markets," said the newly-arrived western lawmaker, "at least we ought to be able, right here at home, to exchange what we don't want for what we do want."

Is the cost of transportation perhaps prohibitive?

"It a large item," agreed the senator, "and yet the railroads howl that they can't make ends meet. I suppose that means," he added, "that they can't pay dividends on a tremendous amount of money that figures in their bookkeeping, but never actually went into their pockets."

When a man leaves his wife she hasn't lost half so much as she thinks she has.

Poetry For Today

NOTHING NEW TODAY

There is nothing new today;
Not a King has passed away;
Not an empire has been lost
On some strange adventurous coast.
Ninevehs are in their place,
Rome and Athens dream apace;
Crete and Salamis are so
As they were long, long ago.

Egypt by her sluggish Nile
Wears her strange old cryptic smile;
Temples still repose in dust,
Helen sleeps as Helen must.
Nothing, nothing—for a fear
Times have nothing we need hear
In these days when sorry man
Slays and sleeps his little span.

Murder, incest, pillage—just
Things that fill us with disgust.
Not a Rome to fall with surge
Of the ancient splash and urge;
Not a Carthage on the map
To turn over from a nap.
Heaving from its chest the dreams
Of divinely splendid schemes.
—Baltimore Sun.

properties."

"It's true," he conceded, "that motor transport is cutting heavily into the railroads' business."

"And why wouldn't it?"
"It not only is cheaper but more convenient, for the truck comes right onto the farm, which eliminates the link between the land and the rails, and saves re-handling."

"But now," continued the senator, "the roads are trying to get regulations adopted to bring the cost of motor shipments up to their level."

"With the progress of inland waterways development, they likewise are taking steps to make the movement of freight by water as expensive as by rail."

"The whole idea," observed the South Dakota solon, "seems to be that the railroads must be preserved, no matter at whose cost."

"Now, my thoughts is that transportation should be competitive."

"The auto truck clearly effects economies in certain classes of shipments. Otherwise the railroads would not be so disturbed over the matter. Improved waterways may fairly be expected to effect still greater economies; that's their purpose."

"Are these benefits to be offset because rail transportation is getting out of date?"

"In my judgment, as the roads become economically obsolete they ought to be scrapped. There surely is no good reason why auto truck and water freight charges should be artificially held above their natural level to enable any railroad to keep on running after it has outlived its usefulness."

To summarize, Senator Bulow suspects that the effort to bolster up old-fashioned institutions—and investments—in disregard of modern conditions has much to do with difficulty of farmers and manufacturers in trading off their respective surpluses with one another, badly as they both desire to exchange them.

"As times change," Senator Bulow remarks, "we should adapt ourselves."

The senator, by the way, occasionally is mentioned as a Democratic vice presidential possibility. It's natural that he should be, being so decidedly of the agricultural type and having demonstrated his ability as a great vote-getter by winning, both gubernatorially and senatorially, in a normally strongly Republican state.

When a man leaves his wife she hasn't lost half so much as she thinks she has.

In Ohio History

High Spots

BY J. H. GALBRAITH

The first phrasing of the anti-slavery clause which went first into the ordinance of 1784, that never really became effective, was carried over into that of 1787 under which the Northwest Territory was governed and the five states in that territory constructed, is found in a letter written by David Howell to Jonathan Arnold, dated Annapolis, Md., February 21, 1784.

It will be noted that it is very similar to the amendment in the federal constitution prohibiting slavery, placed there after the Civil war. Arnold was a Rhode Island man by birth, but after the close of the Revolution removed to St. Johnsbury, Vermont. He was a physician. Howell was a New Jersey man, a lawyer, and both men were members of the continental congress at the time. The letter was written in an exchange of ideas about the impending ordinance, no doubt.

In the outline of the ordinance as given by Howell in his letter, paragraph three, read thus: "After the year 1800 there shall be no slavery in any of the said states, nor involuntary servitude, other than as punishment for crimes."

Howell was a graduate of Princeton, and a lawyer of high standing. Brown University had given him the degree of Doctor of Laws. For a time he had been a professor of mathematics and natural philosophy, and was rated as one of the educated men of the time. The letter in full showed that he had given much thought to the organization of the Northwest Territory and the creation of states there, and their systems of government. Authorship of the anti-slavery provision has been variously ascribed, but while the idea may have been previously suggested, Howell in this letter for the first time phrased it substantially as it finally went in.

Dinner Stories

REAL REVENGE

"My poor woman," said the vicar meeting one of his flock in widow's weeds, "I had not heard you had suffered bereavement."

"Nor I ain't, sir," was the reply, "but my old man annoyed me this morning, so I'm paying 'im out by going into mourning again for my first 'usband.'"

A NEW YORKER AT LARGE

By WILLIAM GAINES

NEW YORK—Never before, within the memory of veteran attendants and long time patrons, have there been so many style copyists at the opera.

On opening night, the 49-year-old Metropolitan fairly swarmed with persons of both sexes, taking every possible advantage to record with lightning speed their impressions of what is stylish in the diamond horseshoe.

The concert dance season, fired by last season's controversy over the invading German, Mary Wigman, defies the threat of financial bogs. It will be in full swing in December, with Wigman returning to New York then.

There will be several newcomers of importance and it is expected that rival terpsichorean theories will be flaming in print again.

BLAZE BROADWAY

"Was it because they were afraid of being mistaken for rubes or because they couldn't be bothered?"

Anyway, it was interesting to see how many people along Broadway paid no attention, or gave no more than a passing glance, to the gigantic Akron when it flew over Manhattan for the first time.

Dear Diary

Story of a Girl who went to New York for Fame and Fortune
By ETHELDA BEDFORD
RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION, INC.

MONDAY NIGHT.

DEAR DIARY: Nate said: "What are you thinking about, child?"

"Thank you for giving me credit for thinking," I answered, smiling up at him from the stool by the fire.

He walked across the carpet toward me.

"Something," he said.

"You—mostly," I answered.

"And what about me?"

"Oh," I said, busying about in my mind to get up something that might sound plausible. "That you're nice to have me come over here to dinner—"

"I was thinking how nice it is of you to come," his eyes were unusually bright from the two drinks he had taken.

"It's the first time—I've ever had dinner with a man in his apartment—alone with him, I mean—"

He chuckled.

"It is amusing, isn't it?"

"Of course it isn't amusing. I was just amused by your seriousness."

I felt uneasy and couldn't think of anything to say.

I guess Sue was right—he does think I'm just sweet and dumb!

It must be great, Diary, to have everything under hand as it were—as he has. To know just what you're about, how to act, what to say . . . how to get the most out of any situation.

Sweet and dumb! What a contrast. No wonder I adore him. He has what I desire . . . poise, happiness, confidence.

"And I dislike my seriousness—"

I said, quite seriously.

"Oh," he said, holding his handsome head at an engaging angle, "please don't dislike anything about you . . . you're so lovely."

I wish I could tell you how lovely you look this minute . . . with the burnished lights playing over your hair and your shoulders . . . your shoulders are—are—"

His warm sunbrowned hand reached out and touched my shoulder—then he drew back a little hurriedly.

I wanted to ask: "My shoulders are what?" But, I didn't.

Diary, I suppose there's no chance of Nate's not having an answer. However, he never finished that sentence—

Because I couldn't think of anything else to say, I asked: "You were having dinner when I telephoned, weren't you?"

"Why, no—"

"Your servant said you were . . . he wouldn't call you; said he didn't want to disturb you, or that you didn't want to be disturbed—as you were dining."

"Oh," Nate said, his eyes leaving mine. "That was just a message in case anyone else should have called . . ."

Anyone else with a feminine voice, I thought—and felt both jealous and triumphant.

With life, as with balloon trousers, there is room at the top but more at the bottom.

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

Does a pimply face embarrass you?

Get a package of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights, if you are like thousands of others.

Help cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

Thousands who take Olive Tablets are never cured with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition, pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound; known by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

EXPLOSION IN MINE TRAPS THREE MEN

Logan, W. Va., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Three men were trapped by an explosion of the No. 3 coal mine of the Monitor Coal Co. here today.

One body was recovered and rescue workers started a search for the other two men, believed to be dead.

The men, all machine cutters, entered the mine a short time before other miners were due to start work. They were cutting a tunnel underneath the bed of Island creek. Mine department officials said they apparently struck a gas pocket just as they started to work.

The explosion, local in nature, cracked the mine room at the point, and water pouring in from the creek bed above hampered rescue workers. They believed the bodies of the other two men were under the water which flooded the mine.

They estimated it would be several hours before the water would be pumped out sufficiently to complete their search.

WAR CLOUD LIFTING IN MANCHURIAN ROW

might lead to the opening direct negotiations between the two countries over the whole Manchurian problem. Official circles expressed themselves as optimistic that the general situation would show marked improvement before long.

Calm was restored over the foreign office today, following Saturday's criticism of statements misconstructed as having been made by Secretary of State Stimson at Washington.

The foreign office last night revoked its criticism and said the situation had been entirely clarified.

"Mr. Stimson assures that he did not make any such statement as I gathered from press dispatches," said a spokesman for the foreign office, which had charged Colonel Stimson with "losing his head" and "flying into fulminations."

"Therefore I consider my impulsive expressions at that time entirely uncalculated for," the spokesman said. "I desire to say that any part of my statement which was not proper is hereby revoked. The assurance given by Mr. Stimson to Ambassador Debutch at Washington clarifies the situation entirely to our satisfaction."

American Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes called on Foreign Minister Shidehara and made an amicable talk with him concerning the misunderstanding.

Yuchiichi Iwanaga, managing director of the Japanese news agency, Shimbun Renga Sha, today cabled The Associated Press that The Rengo Agency "assumes full responsibility" for the publication of the dispatch concerning Secretary of State Stimson's remarks on the Manchurian situation Friday.

This was the dispatch from which the Japanese foreign office attributed to Secretary Stimson certain statements which he said he did not make. The foreign office severely criticized the American secretary of state, but upon the receipt of his explanation withdrew its criticism.

PACKARD WRECKED

A large Packard automobile, owned and driven by a resident of Chicago was badly wrecked and the owner painfully injured, on the Jamestown road near Lancaster, early Sunday evening, when the driver's coat sleeve caught on the light switch, turning the lights off. Before the lights could be turned on the car had crashed.

LIQUOR RUNNER IS FINED $100

Bill Williams, of Derby, caught with ten gallons of liquor in his car, a few nights ago, while the police were seeking a chicken thief drew $100 and costs in Mayor Curtin's court, Sunday, and paid $50, giving bond for the remainder. He was released.

TOWN SURGEON ADOPTS DEBT MORATORIUM PLAN FOR RELIEF OF PATIENTS

But, Alas, Nobody Else Follows Suit and Debtors, Too, Become Peeved Over Publication of Sumas They Owe.

Dr. OLA PUTNAM

Marceline, Mo.—Dr. Ola Putnam, town surgeon, has given this little mining center something to talk about. It's his debt revision plan, whereby he proposed to end a three-year moratorium of doctor bills.

Many of his patients were pleased. Patients owed him about $35,000. He proposed to cancel the debts of the impoverished and deduct a total of $10,000 from those who were pressed, but could pay.

Merchants Patient.

Dr. Putnam sent emissaries to the merchants of the town and tried to get them to do likewise. But the merchants desired to continue their plan of "waiting patiently for the depression to end."

Philanthropic Dr. Putnam became impatient. Without warning, he dropped his philanthropic bomb. He forgave his debtors, but it is doubtful whether some of them will ever forgive their creditor. They object to the publication of their debts.

Only 75 debtors were catalogued in Dr. Putnam's first paid advertisement. He said he would publish three more lists. Thus many of Dr. Putnam's debtor-patients feel very much as they did when they called at his private hospital for their operations. They are perspiring. The good doctor offers no anesthesia.

Dr. Putnam insists he is sincere in his offer to help his townspeople. In an interview he said his position in the matter was just as he had stated in the grim prologue to the first list of forgiven debtors. It read:

"Recognizing the fact that extremely low prices prevail for all local products and that an excessive burden of debt will retard local business, I propose to deduct the sum of $10,000 from accounts owed me. A list will be published each week—the credit granted for the amount set opposite each name—until the sum of $10,000 has been reached."

"OLA PUTNAM,"

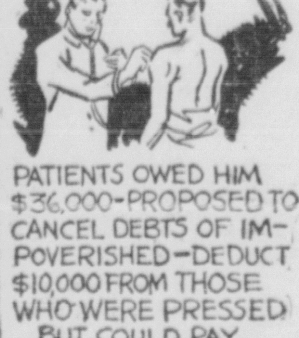

Wants Merchants in Plan

Dr. Putnam cannot see why the merchants do not join him in his debt cancellation move.

"We are in a period of deflation," he explained. "I do not see why the working people and the farmers should be required to bear the burden of loss. I am willing to share it, and that is why I have cut many accounts from 50 to 50 per cent, and expunged others. We all must pay. We are paying for the World War and bad economics. The value of my work has deflated. Hence, I am adjusting my accounts. That's all there is to it.

"Some of the accounts go back three or four years. Some go back to my father's time. He practiced in this county for 50 years."

The merchants contend that Dr. Putnam's cancellation move works the other way around—that it frightens some folks into paying, and thus they will not follow.

HUNGER MARCH INSPIRES RIOT AND MOVES ON

The next day will pass through Hamilton, Middletown, Dayton and Springfield, with an overnight stop in Columbus, on Dec. 3. They will pass through Zanesville and Cambridge to Martins Ferry and the next day will go to Pittsburgh. Fifty-five are in the lineup, the general said.

The second group reaches Toledo tomorrow from Detroit and on Dec. 2 proceeds to Sandusky, Lorain and Cleveland, where they spend the night. They are to be joined by 150 other marchers at Toledo, on Dec. 3, they will pass through Kent, Barberton, Massillon, Canton, Alliance, Salem, to Youngstown, and on Dec. 4 will join the Indianapolis group at Pittsburgh.

A local committee several days ago called upon General Henderson to provide housing facilities, clean beds and bedding for the marchers and to guarantee that they will not be molested.

Columbus city council has arranged for feeding them and housing facilities, the general said, probably will be provided by a local charity organization.

The general advised the marchers they would not be disturbed as long as they obey the laws.

AUTOS IN CRASH ONE STOLEN CAR

COL. DICK SCOTT SEVERELY HURT IN DRECK

When a Chevrolet coup driven by Col. Dick Scott, auctioneer, this city, and another machine which had been stolen from a Kenton, Ohio man met head-on on the CCC Highway near the Clinton county line, around eleven o'clock Sunday night, both cars were wrecked and Col. Scott was badly cut and bruised.

A man and woman in the stolen car, brought to the city by bus, sustained minor cuts and bruises and disappeared during the night, leaving the stolen car near the scene of the wreck.

The stolen car bore California license tags, which had been wired over top of the Ohio tags, and when Sheriff Minton investigated the wreck, Monday, he located the car and the owner. The car is being held for the owner who is expected from Kenton late Monday or Tuesday.

Col. Scott was brought to this city and his wounds dressed. His auto was badly damaged.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR CLYDE COOK

The home in Marion township was filled with relatives, neighbors and other friends, Saturday afternoon at two o'clock for the funeral services of Clyde Cook, well known farmer of that township, who passed away after a lengthy illness.

Rev. F. E. Roberts of Columbus, former pastor of the Church of Christ in New Holland, conducted the services. In addition to the sermon, scripture reading and prayer, Rev. Roberts sang two hymns.

There were many floral pieces, the gift of relatives and friends. Interment was made in the Washington cemetery, with the Masonic Lodge of New Holland conducting their ritualistic services at the grave.

The pallbearers were Pearl Cook, Virgil Bryan, Vernie Cook, William Cook, Charles Cook and Dean Britton.

DR. "BONESETTER" REESE IS DEAD

Nelson.

The real "miracles" that Reese performed, however, were known only through neighbors and admirers. One well known case, however, was that of a boy, paralyzed in the left side, who was brought to Reese on a stretcher. The Welshman's deft fingers roamed across the boy's shoulders, suddenly he pressed something, a bone snapped into place and the boy walked out of the house.

Fees always were whatever the patient could pay.

He is survived by five children, Mrs. Elizabeth Barbour of Canton, and Mrs. Mary Ann Bryn, Mrs. Sarah Jones, Mrs. Katherine McVey and Miss Gertrude Reese, all of Youngstown. His wife, died 17 years ago.

"I thought I might just as well walk around and round my room and keep dry, but I decided nothing British, not even the weather, should change the habit of a lifetime."

SENATOR AND GOVERNOR SPAT

relief.

The Governor replied with the suggestion that Davis give of his funds to unemployment relief in Pennsylvania in proportion to the amount the Governor gives.

Senator Davis replied that he and Mrs. Davis would give all of their income and real estate holdings if Mr. and Mrs. Pinchot would do the same.

THE OTHER SIDE.

Washington, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Senator Davis of Pennsylvania has but one sentence to say today in response to the offer of Governor Pinchot to match the Senator in giving a quarter of his gross income for this year to unemployment relief.

"P. T. Barnum, the master showman, also always had a way out," he said.

The Senator had proposed that he and the Pennsylvania governor give their entire salaries for relief.

MARKETS and FINANCIAL NEWS

DAY'S ACTIVITIES IN WALL STREET

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER

New York, Nov. 30.—(AP)—The stock market met support today, after wavering on the edge of the bear market lows established early in October.

There were a few selling flurries during the morning, with rails, motors and motion pictures encountering momentary pressure, but the list generally stiffened after midday, and advances of 1 to 3 points appeared in prominent issues.

Issues up 1 to 2 points included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Can, Sears, Woolworth, National Biscuit, Consolidated Gas, American Telephone, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific, New York Central, and Eastman. McKeesport and Auburn rose about 3. During the morning selling, U. S. Steel touched a new low at 53. General Motors and Paramount sold off about a point.

A recovery in the wheat market helped shares.

Foreign exchanges generally weakened in relation to the American dollar, which again drew attention to the impending reparations and German credits discussions.

Despite the apparent cleavage of opinion between Paris and London, leading Wall street bankers believe an agreement is so obviously essential to Europe's economic stability that it will not be unduly delayed.

The new week in the securities market found the speculative community in a highly unsettled frame of mind, with a considerable residue of bearishness from last week's slump. Nevertheless, the market's refusal to break through the Oct. 5 low was regarded as distinctly hopeful.

The further slump in sterling was regarded as not altogether surprising in view of the almost complete lack of support last week.

The local money market showed but a slightly firmer undertone, in response to the Dec. 1 settlements. Interest and dividend payments to be disbursed are estimated at around $700,000,000.

WOOL MARKET

Boston, Nov. 30.—(AP)—U. S. Dept. of Agr.—Domestic wool prices were steady to slightly higher than a week ago. Texas wools, particularly, have recently shown tendencies to advance. Short combing 64s and finer wools in the original bags from territories of other sections of the far west were firm. There was an inclination to strengthen on graded territorial wools of 58s, and 60s, to 48s and 50s, inclusive. Receipts of domestic wools at the Boston market for the week ending Nov. 28, were 294,300 pounds as compared with 3,058,700 pounds of a week ago.

PATROLMAN SHOT BY MAN ARRESTED

Youngtown, O., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Patrolman Herbert C. Esker, 43, was seriously wounded and Lieut. Robert Jardine, 55, of the Republic Steel Corporation police, were shot when a man they were arresting for trespassing fired upon them yesterday.

Esker, with a bullet wound in his abdomen, was in a "serious" condition today.

The two special policemen picked up the man and a companion and began to search them. The gun man jerked away from Esker and opened fire. Jardine returned the fire, but Esker's assailant escaped.

The gunman's companion was taken into custody. He said he did not know his companion's name.

BROWN IN RACE FOR GOVERNOR

commission by former Governor Myers Y. Cooper in January, 1929, after having completed a two-month term as Lieutenant Governor to which position he had been elected in 1928 to fill the unexpired term of Earl D. Bloom, Bowling Green, who had resigned to become director of commerce in Governor A. V. Donahey's cabinet. Prior to his election as lieutenant governor, Mr. Braden served two terms as vice chairman of the Republican State Central committee.

Braden who is 63 years old was born in Trumbull county where he was educated and entered business. He was secretary of the Warren Chamber of Commerce for 11 years, was postmaster of the city under the Roosevelt administration and was five years in Washington as secretary to Congressman W. Aubrey Thomas of the 19th district.

Cobs Retain Moisture

In Excessively Dry Soil

Coffeyville, Kas.—(AP)—Usually regarded as waste, or at best only fairly good for fuel, corn cobs are being used by farmers in this vicinity to hold moisture in an excessively porous soil.

In cultivated fields are occasional spots where the soil is lighter in color and drier than surrounding ground, and as a result of quick evaporation of moisture, crops do not thrive on them. The farmers plow up the dry spots, and bury a wagonload of corn cobs.

The former dry areas hold moisture as well as surrounding soil for two or three years, or until the cobs have been dissolved.

CHARITY GAMES

DRAW $154,000 CROWD

Crowds at Big Ten Tilts Not Up to Standard of Regular Games

UPSETS FEATURE BILL

Purdue and Northwestern Favored by Fans

Chicago, Nov. 30.—(AP)—The Big Ten's most fantastic football season in history; charity has benefited by $154,000; Northwestern shares the championship with Michigan and Purdue—and the arguments over the whole thing probably will continue until a new season rolls around.

The most stunning upset of the overlong campaign was saved until the final day—last Saturday—when Purdue toppled Northwestern from its high place, 7 to 6, to ruin an unmarred record, and give Michigan a chance to cut in. Purdue gained a tie with the Wildcats for the top position by its triumph, while Michigan declared itself in by administering a 16 to 0 beating to Wisconsin at Ann Arbor. Ohio State failed to grab a share of the title by losing to Minnesota, 19 to 7, in another upset.

Out at Northwestern, where a week ago they were dreaming of a National championship claim, there were no alibis today. Coach Dick Hanley said the better team had won Saturday, but said that his squad worn down by a more difficult schedule, was past its peak and had not enough left to contend with a powerful foe in an extra game. The defeat just about eliminated Northwestern as a possibility for the Rose Bowl game at Los Angeles, New Year's day, and snatched away at the last moment, the only undisputed gridiron title in Northwestern's history.

Purdue, its supposedly erratic line playing championship football and overcoming handicaps from penalties and fumbles, conquered the Wildcats before 33,000 spectators who contributed about $75,000 to charity. At Ann Arbor, a meager crowd of 10,000 paid $20,000 to see the Wolverines held scoreless and outplayed in the first half by Wisconsin, come back to win handily in the final two periods. Minnesota and Ohio attracted 25,000 patrons and $45,000 as the Gophers reached their peak to defeat the Buckeyes.

The charity fund was started with $13,000 received from the "Round Robin" tournament at Stagg Field Thanksgiving Day.

It was the first time in Western Conference gridiron history that three teams had divided the title, and while disappointing to Northwestern, the extra games produced the result predicted by the experts before the season opened. Northwestern, Purdue & Michigan not scheduled to meet among themselves, were rated as the strongest squads in the league and a three-way split was predicted.

Michigan was defeated by Ohio State, 20 to 7, in its second Big Ten encounter, while Wisconsin set the Boiler-makers back with an unexpected 21 to 14 defeat. Only Illinois and Iowa failed to win at least one game, and the Hawkeyes even failed to score a single point in conference competition.

Buckeye Fencers Get Call

Columbus, O. (AP)—First call for fencers for the Ohio State university fencing team has been issued by Coach Frank A. Riebel. Seven veterans of the team are available for this season's schedule, which includes Northwestern, Army, Navy, Dartmouth, Columbia, Pennsylvania, Yale, Cornell and Princeton.

PILES ALL GONE

Without Salves or Cutting

Itching, bleeding, protruding piles go quickly and don't come back, if you remove the cause. Bad blood circulation in the hemorrhoidal veins causes piles by making the affected parts weak, flabby, almost dead. Salves and cutting fail because only an internal medicine can actually correct these conditions. Dr. J. S. Leonard discovered a real internal Pile remedy. After prescribing it for 1,000 patients with success in 960 cases, he named it HEM-ROID. Finley's Corner Drug Store says one bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets must end your Pile misery or money back.—Adv.

NORTHWESTERN BOWS TO PURDUE

Northwestern went down to defeat, 7-6, in Saturday's charity game at Soldier Field, Chicago, between Northwestern and Purdue. This photo shows Pig Rentner (arrow), after he had broken through Purdue's line for a short gain, only to be hauled down by Ed Risk and Roy Hartsman.

ARMY BEATS NOTRE DAME, 12-0

The Army mule triumphed over Notre Dame in Saturday's game at Yankee Stadium, New York. Banas of Notre Dame is shown here starting end run in first quarter, but he was tackled, and thrown for a four-yard loss.

ALL-CHIO CONFERENCE TEAM PICKED

FOR THE WEEK RING PROGRAM

New York, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Kid Chocolate, Benny Bass and Johnny Risko will seek to get a somewhat scant boxing schedule off to a running start tonight.

Chocolate, who recently dropped a close decision to Tony Canzoneri in a lightweight titular duel, battles against Maxie Leiter of New York, in a ten round bout at the St. Nicholas club here.

Bass, who lost his junior lightweight championship to Chocolate some months ago, starts a comeback campaign in Philadelphia against Jackie Pilkington.

Risko, the Cleveland heavy weight trial horse, engages Meyer (K. O.) Christner, of Akron, for the third time in Cleveland, they split even in two previous battles.

Boston and Oakland, Calif., offer the only other matches of more than average interest during the rest of the week. Lou Brouillard, of Worcester, Mass., welterweight champion, takes on Bucky Lawless of Syracuse, N. Y., in a ten round non-title duel at Boston Wednesday. On the same night at Oakland, Midget Wolgast of Philadelphia, recognized in some states as flyweight champion, will meet Speedy Daceo of the Philippines in another non-titular affray.

"Capt. Kidd" Brewer and Yowell Mason have been Duke's best ground gainers this year.

Fighting Czech

All the way from Czechoslovakia comes Franta Nekolney, welterweight, to seek a duel with Lou Brouillard, new world's welterweight champion. Nekolney has been hailed by European sports writers as the continent's "greatest fighting machine."

Duluth Has Playing Coach

Duluth, Minn.—(AP)—Johnny Mitchell, who heads the Duluth hockey team in the American league this season, will coach the team in addition to playing at center.

Olympic Program For Tryouts Now Well Underway

New York, Nov. 30.—(AP)—A meeting of the Olympic committee to lay plans for participation of the various United States teams the 27 sports on the 1932 Olympic program has revealed that preparations are well under way.

In nearly every sport, plans have been laid for tryouts to select the competitors. The third Olympic winter games at Lake Placid, N. Y., are still months away and the summer meet at Los Angeles does not start until July 30, 1932.

An equestrian squad of 12 men already is in California training for the three difficult events on next summer's program. The gymnast will not have their final tryouts until July and preliminary trials are scheduled for next spring.

The winter skating squad, first of the winter sports teams to get into action, was scheduled to start practice at Bear Mountain, N. Y., tomorrow with 18 candidates, but unseasonably warm weather has caused a two-week postponement. The names of 46 skaters who are eligible for the final trials in January also have been listed.

Ice hockey finds financial troubles in the way of selecting a team but it is expected a series of sectional and final trials will be self supporting. The committee explained that it has no funds at present available.

The big event of the Olympiad is the track and field games and in this department financial worries seem to be missing. Plans for a long series of sectional, semi-final and finals have been made and already an appropriation of $7,000 has been set aside so that the qualifiers in the "open" semifinal at Chicago can go to the finals at Pauto Alta, Cal., in July, preliminary trial dates have not been fixed.

LACKS FINAL PUNCH

Dallas, Tex.—(AP)—In the Southern Methodist University of Texas football game, Southern Methodist gained 497 yards and made 29 first downs but scored only one touchdown. Texas, with five first downs, also crossed its opponents' goal.

CHARITY RACE BRING BOWIE MEET TO END

Bowie, Md., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Seven races for charity at Bowie track today were to bring to a close Maryland's fall racing program and at the same time, it was expected swell to $10,000 the contribution of the four tracks of the state, to the fund for the unemployed.

Four previous charity day programs, one each at Bowie, Harve De Grace, Pimlico and Laurel, raised approximately $90,000. Sponsors of the plan, who had hoped the programs would provide $100,000 appealed to the Bowie management to open the gates one more day for the benefit of the needy.

PRO FOOTBALL LOOP TO DATE

Columbus, O., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Glenn Presnell's placekick provided the margin that enabled the Portsmouth Spartans to nose out a 3-0 victory over the Chicago Bears in a National Professional League football game at Portsmouth game at Portsmouth yesterday.

The win left the Spartans with a mathematical chance to share in the championship. Green Bay, however, gave notice it intended to fight for its second straight title, by defeating Brooklyn, 7 to 0. Each of the leaders has two games to play.

In a third game yesterday, the New York Giants and the Providence steam rollers battled to a scoreless tie. The standings:

Team	W	L	T	Pct
Green Bay	12	1	0	.923
Portsmouth	11	3	0	.786
Chicago Bears	7	4	0	.636
Chicago Cardinals	5	4	0	.556
Providence	4	4	3	.500
New York	5	6	1	.455
Staten Island	4	6	1	.400
Cleveland	2	8	0	.200
Brooklyn	2	11	0	.154
Philadelphia	1	6	1	.143

Oklahoma City Team Shrinks
Oklahoma City (AP)—Last year someone nicknamed the powerful Oklahoma City university eleven the "Big Bruisers," but the name hardly applies this season. When Coach V. J. Green put his men on the scales recently he found their average 177 pounds, much lighter than last year's team.

ALL-EASTERN TEAM NAMED BY EXPERTS

By GAYLE TALBOT
New York, Nov. 30.—(AP)—To Albie Booth, Yale's favorite football player, goes the distinction of landing a backfield berth for the third straight year on the Associated Press' All-Eastern eleven, selected by a census of the section's sports writers.

The mercury-footed little leader of the Bulldogs, placed at quarterback on the mythical team for the last two seasons, finds himself shifted to halfback on the 1931 edition.

Only one other back, the brilliant Captain Barry Wood of Harvard, polled more votes than Booth. Wood gained the coveted quarterback post over his only serious rival, Bill Morton of Dartmouth.

Following are the first and second team selections.

Position	First Team	Second Team
End	Orsi, Colgate	Martinez-Zorilla, Cornell
Tackle	McMurdo, Pittsburgh	Colehower, Pennsylvania
Guard	Zyngel, Holy Cross	Summerfelt, Army
Center	Dawgherty, Pittsburgh	McBuffy, Columbia
Guard	Myerson, Harvard	Trice, Army
Tackle	Price, Army	Hardy, Harvard
End	Riblett, Pennsylvania	Cavallieri, Holy Cross
Quarterback	Wood, Harvard	Morton, Dartmouth
Halfback	Booth, Yale	Murphy, Fordham
Halfback	Viviano, Cornell	McCall, Dartmouth
Fullback	Hinkle, Bucknell	Perina, Pennsylvania

13 Football Teams Undefeated—Five Of Them United

By The Associated Press
The nation's undefeated football brigade lost only one of its number during the past week but three of them suffered their first ties.

Northwestern was the team which was eliminated from the list while Tennessee, Southern Methodist and Westminster of Missouri all were tied for the first time. Kansas Wesleyan, another undefeated eleven, suffered its second tie.

With the season virtually over, five teams have neither been beaten nor tied. Eight more have escaped defeat but have been tied at least once.

The list of unbeaten teams was compiled by the Associated Press as follows:

Teams	Won	Lost	Tied	Pts For	Pts Against
Oklahoma City	11	0	0	263	45
Tulane	10	0	0	310	21
Maryville (Mo.)	9	0	0	189	6
Muskingum (O.)	8	0	0	138	12
Louisiana Tech	7	0	0	167	36
Southern Methodist	6	0	1	158	41
Tennessee	8	0	1	230	15
Wittenberg (O.)	9	0	1	214	51
Westminster (Mo.)	8	0	1	184	20
Kansas Wesleyan	6	0	2	163	24
Hillsdale (Mich.)	5	0	2	111	46
Bucknell	6	0	3	148	47
Baldwin Wallace (O.)	5	0	3	128	12

Jap Olympic Hope

Masako Shimo, having recently set a new Japanese girls' record for the javelin throw of 34.82 meters, is regarded as one of Japan's outstanding candidates for 1932 girls' Olympic games honors.

Texas Christian Gridder Plays With Broken Teeth

Fort Worth, Tex.—(AP)—Johnny Vaught, Texas Christian guard, was kicked in the face in the second play of the Simmons game, but played throughout the contest with a lower tooth broken off and an upper tooth bent backward at a 45-degree angle.

Asked regarding the injury after the game, he said he "just pretended he had pyorrhea" and kept on playing.

CHAMPIONS CROWNED

Tournament of Roses to Ring Down Curtain

By HERBERT W. BARKER

New York, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Sectional championships in seven of the country's eight major groups or conferences have been settled but the 1931 season declines to call it a year. A score of games, most of them for charity, will be played next Saturday and there will be intermittent firing thereafter until the rose Bowl game New Year's day.

Out of the Rose Bowl game, incidentally, probably will emerge the winner of the mythical national championship. Southern California will be the far west's representative in this annual classic and there have been strong indications that the Trojans opponent will be the green wave of Tulane, undefeated and untied winner of the Southern Conference title.

In addition to the Southern Conference race, six other sectional championships have been settled definitely. Northwestern, Purdue, and Michigan share the Big Ten crown; Southern Methodist has displaced Texas as the Southwest champion; Nebraska, Utah and Drake, have repeated as football kings of the Big Six, Rocky Mountain and Missouri Valley Conferences respectively, and Bucknell has compiled the only unbeaten record in the East where a generally recognized champion almost never emerges.

The only big sectional race still in doubt is in the Pacific Coast Conference where Southern California yet must conquer Washington to gain undisputed possession of the title.

While Southern California is tanzling with Washington, Tulane will try to clinch an invitation to the Rose Bowl by turning back Washington State at New Orleans, Saturday.

To such other regularly scheduled games this week as Navy-Penn. Western Maryland-Maryland, Kentucky-Florida, Haskell-Tulsa and Drake-Loyola (Calif.), charity has added a dozen others in the East. Tennessee's undefeated Southern Conference squad will tangle with New York University, Carnegie and Duquesne will play at Pittsburgh and Yale, Holy Cross, Brown and Dartmouth will participate in a round robin in the Yale Bowl.

Mid-Western contributions to the cause will include the meeting of Kansas and Washburn, Oklahoma and unbeaten Oklahoma City, Kansas State and Wichita, and Missouri and St. Louis.

In the South, South Carolina will clash with Center and Alabama play Chattanooga while a picked team from Duke and North Carolina will battle another selected squad drawn from North Carolina State, Davidson and Lake Forest.

Nebraska will travel to Denver to play the Colorado Aggies and further West, Southern Methodist will battle St. Mary's of Oakland, Calif. and Utah will meet Oregon State.

After this week, the outstanding games still remaining on the card will include:

Dec. 9 at New York, Round robin among Columbia, Cornell, Princeton and Pennsylvania.

Dec. 12—At New York, Army vs. Navy; Georgia at Southern California; Oakland vs. Tulsa.

Dec. 26—(AP)—California at Georgia Tech.

New Year's Day—Rose Bowl game at Pasadena.

Gridiron Stars

By The Associated Press

Ray Stecker, Army—Took long pass to put ball in position for first touchdown against Notre Dame; scored second on 68 yard run.

Jim Purvis, Purdue—Sprinted 12 yards for touchdown that beat Northwestern.

Ernie Cadden, Stanford—Scored three times against Dartmouth, twice on runs of 2 and 63 yards.

Jack Manders and Clarence Munn, Minnesota—Former starred on offense, latter on defense against Ohio State.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN GOULD

The three-cornered switch in football coaches a short time ago, involving Minnesota, the University of Oregon and Holy Cross, has turned out pretty well for all concerned.

It would be difficult to pick any three places more widely separated in their spheres of interest and action but they have a common satisfaction in the turnover that shifted Clarence (Fat) Spears from Minnesota to Oregon, Capt. Jack McEwan from Oregon to Holy Cross, and Fritz Crisler into the head coaching berth at Minnesota, by way of Chicago.

Minnesota came through with unexpected strength this year, trouncing Iowa and Wisconsin and giving the great Northwestern eleven a sensational game. Oregon, upset by the loss of a star back and then by Southern California, retrieved a flock of prestige by handing New York University its first defeat of the season, 31,000 miles from the home of the Webfoot at Eugene.

Holy Cross yielded to Harvard and Dartmouth by a single touchdown, but tied Fordham and romped over Rutgers and Brown in the course of a very impressive campaign.

McEwan's coaching methods have gained him enthusiastic support at Worcester. His talented assets have included a great quarterback in Phil O'Connell and what one writer describes as a pair of grand opera twins on the wings, Jim Cavallieri and Tony Loculi.

McEwan says he never thinks of his star ends without feeling like humming a few bars of the opera "Cavalleria Rusticana."

As a working combination on the flanks, Loculi and Cavallieri rank close to the great Tulane pair, Dalrymple and Haynes, the barehead boys of Dixie.

Speaking of ends, and even if we are a trifle late in stressing the obvious fact, Georgia's Catfish Smith was "ganged" to such an extent in the Tulane game that it is doubtful if even a Hinky or a Muller would have been able to survive a pounding such as he absorbed and do his stuff.

The most conspicuous tribute to Smith's ability was the fact that the Greenies shot in two and often three men to keep the Catfish out of the play. Deliberately, it appeared, the Georgia star was steam-rollered at the outset.

The psychology was, of course, well conceived. The ballyhoo was strong for the Catfish. He was the marked man. Feeling his own responsibility, he quickly became over-anxious and cost Georgia several penalties through his eagerness to break through the barriers closing around him.

As Edwin Camp of the Atlanta Journal writes me: I have no illusions about Smith as an end. He is like Babe Ruth; he strikes out often. Still, he is the greatest competitive athlete I have ever seen on a football field."

The gridiron campaign has produced arguments for an against the "breather" schedules of major teams.

While Georgia was tackling the tough ones, north and south, Tulane developed its strength with intervals of comparative relaxation and consequently was in prime condition to upset the Bulldogs.

Cornell used similar tactics but appeared short of experience against Dartmouth, which beat the Ithacans after successive hard games against Yale and Harvard.

Notre Dame, as usual, thrives on big league competition all the way. So has Northwestern, although the Wildcats came close to experiencing an unpleasant reaction against Indiana.
